Support for DITA workers in Tuzla (Bosnia)

The strike committee of DITA (Tuzla, in Bosnia) has led a sit-in of their factory since June 6, 2013.

Before the civil war, DITA was one of the biggest companies in Tuzla (744 workers in DITA plus about 500 indirectly). In 2005, the holding LAURA from Sarajevo purchased 86% of this large means of production. The size of the area is huge, which will give opportunities to build a supermarket or a new business center.

LAURA has refused since the beginning to invest in the company. It's been managed so badly that DITA has now become a non profitable company although detergents still remain an opportunity to make profits in this area of Bosnia. Despite the new loans of LAURA, the workers have received no salary for 42 months.

In 2011 the workers took the initiative to replace the leader of the trade union. The previous one was obviously corrupted and the newly elected representative decided to make an alliance with those who refused the situation which was already worsening. The strike committee is still active. Only 60 workers remain on the spot but the sit-in is going on night and day. Justice had recognised their right to strike after a difficult moment when the police told them that their action was illegal.

Now the workers of DITA are looking for international help to keep on fighting. They hope that new investors will buy DITA and will try to produce detergents and cosmetics again. They have been officially fired since May 17th 2015 and since then have lived on the sole help of their families. The workers have given 8, 10, even 30 years to DITA. It's part of their lives!

They want to work. Unemployment in Bosnia is very high as well as corruption. The strike committee of DITA is led by a fighting spirit but it needs help from the outside.

The international trade union network of solidarity and struggles supports DITA workers and call on member organizations that can to provide financial support.
